Unique position of Judiciary in Administration of Justice

- Role of courts and judges in modern times
- Need for maintaining independence of judiciary

- Tendency to lower image of judiciary

Where there is no deliberate flouting of the orders of the court but a mere misinterpretation of the executive instructions, it would not be a case of Civil Contempt.*”

K.C.G. Verghese v. K.T. Rajendran and another (2003) 1 ACE 557 = (2003) 1 SCJ 557.

- Section 2(b) — Contempt of Court — Supreme Court had directed Contemnor No. 1 to vacate suit premises within six months, to which effect he filed an undertaking — Complainant filed contempt petition alleging that Contemnor No. 1 has not complied with the orders of Supreme Court and that Contemnor No. 2 is helping him in that regard — Contemnor No. 1's stand is that portion of the premises in his possession has been vacated but the other portion could not be vacated since it was not in his possession but was in possession of his brother, Contemnor No. 2 — Contemnor No. 2 pleaded that he is not a party to the proceedings and also claimed independent right over part of the premises in his possession — Stand of Contemnors — Whether maintainable? — Held, No — While giving undertaking, Contemnor No. 1 did not indicate that he was in possession of a part of the premises nor was such a stand taken before Courts below — Further, in a Power of Attorney executed by Contemnor No. 1 in favour of Contemnor No. 2 to attend matters relating to suit premises there is no mention of latter's independent right as claimed now — In such circumstances, objections raised by Contemnor No. 2 are not maintainable — Directions given for ejection of Contemnor No. 2 and for delivery of possession to Complainant.

Union of India and others v. Subedar Davassy PV; AIR 2006 SC 909 = (2006) 1 SCC 613

- Court is primarily concerned with contumacious conduct of the party who is alleged to have committed default in complying with the directions in the judgment or order — If the judgment or order is not legally tenable, the party has to approach the higher court — Court, while exercising contempt jurisdiction, cannot take upon itself power to decide the original proceedings in a manner not dealt with by the court passing the judgment or order.
Held: While dealing with an application for court is really concerned with the question whether the earlier decision, which has received its finality, had been complied with or not. It would not be permissible for a Court to examine the correctness of the earlier decision, which had not been assailed, and to take a view different from what was taken in the earlier decision. The Court exercising contempt jurisdiction cannot take upon itself power to decide the original proceedings in a manner not dealt with by the court passing the judgment or order.
- K.G. Derasari v. Union of India (2001) 10 SCC 496 – Relied on.

Union of India v. Subedar Davassy PV

AIR 2006 SC 909 = (2006) 1 CC613 ■

- Contempt application — Question of impossibility to carry out the directions in the judgment or order — If a party is aggrieved by the order, he should take prompt steps to invoke the appellate proceedings and cannot ignore the order and plead about difficulties of implementation of the directions in the judgment or order. Mohd. Iqbal Khanday v. Abdul Majid Rather (1994) 4 SCC 34 – Relied on.

Section 19 — Scope of — When appeals lie under Sec. 19

- Summarised and enumerated — Civil Procedure Code, Sec. 2(9) & Order 43 Rule 1 — Definition of “Judgment” enlarged for purposes of Clause 15 of Letters Patent — Pending contempt proceedings, single Judge directed contemnor through interlocutory order to (i) forthwith reinstate the complainant (ii) to pay all arrears of salary deeming that he was in service all through (iii) deem suspension as having been revoked (iv) appoint another Inquiry Officer as present one disqualified — Such interim directions are “Interlocutory judgments” for purposes of an intra court appeal to lie — Above directions are outside the scope of contempt proceedings and liable to be set aside. Held: The position emerging from these decisions, in regard to appeals against orders in contempt proceedings may be summarized thus :
 - I. An appeal under section 19 is maintainable only against an order or decision of the High Court passed in exercise of its jurisdiction to punish for contempt, that is, an order imposing punishment for contempt.

- II. Neither an order declining to initiate proceedings for contempt, nor an order initiating proceedings for contempt nor an order dropping the proceedings for contempt nor an order acquitting or exonerating the contemnor, is appealable under Section 19 of the CC Act. In special circumstances, they may be open to challenge under Article 136 of the Constitution.
- III. In a proceeding for contempt, the High Court can decide whether any contempt of court has been committed, and if so, what should be the punishment and matters incidental thereto. In such a proceeding, it is not appropriate to adjudicate or decide any issue relating to the merits of the dispute between the parties.

- IV. Any direction issued or decision made by the High Court on the merits of a dispute between the parties, will not be in the exercise of 'jurisdiction to punish for contempt' and therefore, not appealable under section 19 of CC Act. The only exception is where such direction or decision is incidental to or inextricably connected with the order punishing for contempt, in which event the appeal under section 19 of the Act, can also encompass the incidental or inextricably connected directions.
- V. If the High Court, for whatsoever reason, decides an issue or makes any direction, relating to the merits of the dispute between the parties, in a contempt proceedings, the aggrieved person is not without remedy. Such an order is open to challenge in an intra-court appeal (if the order was of a learned Single Judge and there is a provision for an intra-court appeal), or by seeking special leave to appeal under Article 136 of the Constitution of India (in other cases).

- Interim orders/interlocutory orders passed during the pendency of a case, fall under one or the other of the following categories :
 - (i) Orders which finally decide a question or issue in controversy in the main case.
 - (ii) Orders which finally decide an issue which materially and directly affects the final decision in the main case.
 - (iii) Orders which finally decide a collateral issue or question which is not the subject matter of the main case.
 - (iv) Routine orders which are passed to facilitate the progress of the case till its culmination in the final judgment.
 - (v) Orders which may cause some inconvenience or some prejudice to a party, but which do not finally determine the rights and obligations of the parties.

- The term ‘judgment’ occurring in clause 15 of the Letters Patent will take into its fold not only the judgments as defined in Section 2(9) CPC and orders enumerated in Order 43 Rule 1 of CPC, but also other orders which, though may not finally and conclusively determine the rights of parties with regard to all or any matters in controversy, may have finality in regard to some collateral matter, which will affect the vital and valuable rights and obligations of the parties. Interlocutory orders which fall under categories (i) to (iii) above, are, therefore, ‘judgments’ for the purpose of filing appeals under the Letters Patent. On the other hand, orders falling under categories (iv) and (v) are not ‘judgments’ for purpose of filing appeals provided under the Letters Patent.

- There was also no justification for the further direction by the learned Single Judge in the contempt proceedings, that too by an interlocutory order, that the complainant should immediately and forthwith be reinstated into the service of the Bank, and shall be deemed to be in the service of the Bank all through, that the employee shall not be prevented in any manner from discharging his duties and that he shall be paid all arrears of salary within four weeks, and that the suspension order shall be deemed to have been revoked. These were totally outside the scope of the proceedings for contempt and amounted to adjudication of rights and liabilities not in issue in the contempt proceedings. At all events, on the facts and circumstances, there was no disobedience, breach or neglect on the part of the Bank and its President and Secretary, to provoke the court to issue such directions, even assuming that such directions could be issued in the course of the contempt proceedings. Hence, directions (2) and (3) and the direction relating to revocation of suspension are liable to be set aside.

Midnapore Peoples' Co-op. Bank Ltd. and others v. Chunilal Nanda and others; 2006) 5 SCC 399 = AIR 2006 SC 2190
