Dr. MCR HRD Institute of Telangana organised a “One Day Reorientation and Capacity Building Program for District Officers of Nalgonda, Suryapet, Medak, and Sangareddy Districts in the Context of Telangana” on June 29th 2017. Sri A K Goel, IAS (Retd.), in his Inaugural Address, said that the achievements of Telangana State, in terms of rise in per capita income, women development, public irrigation, information technology, etc. are much above the corresponding national averages. He advised the District Officers to use information and communication technology as extensively as possible in order to improve the quality of governance. He called upon them to focus their attention on improving literacy, educational levels, and nutritional requirements of people, as these are the prerequisites of development.

Sri A Rama Lakshman, IAS (Ret.), Advisor to Govt. for Welfare, said that by spending over Rs. 40,000 crores on an array of welfare schemes, Telangana has emerged as a role model for other States. He stated that the welfare schemes are covering all segments of poor people across the State, irrespective of caste, creed, and religion. He advised the District Officers to create wider awareness among people, especially in the rural areas, about the welfare schemes in order to ensure that their benefits reach the needy beneficiaries.

Sri B P Acharya, IAS, Special Chief Secretary to Govt. & DG, Dr. MCR HRDIT highlighted the need for using statistics as a tool for planning. “Use of Samagra Kutumba Survey data, which is a goldmine of information about each household will be of great help in formulating innovative intervention strategies according to felt needs of people”, he added and paid rich tributes to Prof. P C Mahalanobis, the father of Indian statistics, as June 29th happens to be his 125th birth anniversary.

Sri Gaurav Uppal, IAS, Collector, Nalgonda District said that working in watertight compartments has become a thing of the past and called for a higher degree of inter-departmental coordination for improving the pace and quality of decision making. “While paper work is important in its own right, more and more face-to-face interactions among different stakeholders is the need of the hour to understand the problems in their true perspective and to find enduring solutions for them. Sri Manickaraj Kannan, IAS, Collector, Sangareddy District highlighted the importance of systematic and scientific utilisation of human resources. “Each employee must have a clear idea about his job, workload, and contribution to overall goals of organisation”, opined Sri Manickaraj and added that employees must maintain work-life balance to be happy and productive. Sri K Surendra Mohan, IAS, Collector, Suryapet District called for reorientation programs exclusively for the officers of each Department. He added that the Government has extended a number of benefits to employees and called upon them to reciprocate through their efficient contribution and higher productivity. Smt.
